Improving Camperdown Park

Council has developed a 10-year plan to make Camperdown Park even better.

Proposed improvements to Camperdown Park include:

- Creation of a cultural hub for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities
- Upgrade to the existing playground to an all-exclusive play area for all ages and abilities
- Relocation the table tennis facilities to a more active area in the park
- Restoration of the war memorial
- Upgrade of the bleacher seating and additional shade
- Investigate options to upgrade the Portuguese Ethnographic Museum in the park to a community facility
- Improve access to the park from Australia Street

Inner West Council is making Camperdown Park even better

Camperdown Park is a popular community space where families gather, children enjoy the playground and people of all ages enjoy recreational activities such as cricket, tennis, and basketball.

That's why we've drafted a new 10-year plan to support the park's future including the development of an inclusive playground and a hub to recognise Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander culture.

We know this is a precious open space for a growing population and want to ensure that the final plans for this area meet the needs of the people who use it.

We want to hear from you about how you think we should improve Camperdown Park for the community.
